Tuesday October 20th

Local carver Ivan Rosypskye has completed work on a healing sculpture that was created to bring people together, raise awareness and help heal the divide between First Nations people and Canadians. The theme was centered around the idea of "sharing stories and moving forward". The sculpture, located in the gardens at Sycamore Commons in Townsite, was unveiled on Tuesday October 20th, in a ceremony with approximately 200 people in attendance.

The cypress tree that was carved was still upright in the ground which presented a lot of unique challenges for Ivan. Using different tools and techniques Ivan was able to work around the knots and create a beautiful work of art.

The sculpture incorporates a brick from the recently demolished St. Michael's Residential School. The residential school was an Anglican school and this sculpture is on Anglican Church grounds. It is a jarring feature that detours from the smooth lines of the sculpture. "I want people to look at the brick sitting there amongst the bear, salmon and killer whale figures and ask what it's doing there," said Rosypskye. "The sculpture tells us to remember the mistakes we made in the past." The brick represents how First Nations culture was interrupted, but not destroyed by colonization and the residential school system.

There were many people from all walks of life that came to visit Ivan and contribute by working on the pole with him. The healing pole brought together many people and marks a new beginning at the end of the long and painful process of reconciliation.

We were very fortunate as a community (Sliammon and Powell River) to have representatives come over from Tsulquate reserve, members of the Gwa’sala and the ‘Nakwaxdaxw First Nations, to share part of their story and their journey with us, at the Rossander World Community Film Festival on Sunday October the 18th, at the Patricia Theatre in Townsite.

Elders Eugene Louie and Phil George welcomed our guests after which Cyndi, Devin and Jordan shared some songs. Elected Chief Paddy Walkus and Hereditary Chief's Willie Walkus and Chief Tom Henderson and their partners Linda and Charlotte and Chief Treaty Negotiator Colleen Hemphill were present for the screening of their film "How a people Live", which told the story of their forced relocation in 1964 and the struggles they faced.

The Gwa’sala and the ‘Nakwaxdaxw First Nations people lived as two distinct groups along BC’s northwest coast. In 1964, for ease of administration, the Canadian Government forcibly relocated them from their traditional territories along Queen Charlotte Strait (Smith Inlet, Seymour Inlet and Blunden Harbour) to the Tsulquate reserve near Port Hardy on Vancouver Island. Crowded into only a few houses with no potable water, they couldn’t even retrieve their possessions. When they returned to their villages to do so, they found their homes had been burned to the ground.

The film was very moving and shared a story that has been echoed by all First Nations people throughout North, Central and South America. The title of the film was adapted from a book written about them by a government worker Alan Fry titled "How a people die". The author didn’t think their people would survive through this difficult period.

It was an enormous struggle for these communities who lost part of their identity and culture for a period of time. After losing many of their family members a spark began to reignite, and little by little they began to rebuild and reclaim their culture and their identity. They have overcome great hurdles as a people and are now in the process of treaty negotiations with the federal government.

This was another important story that needed to be told to help all people through the process of healing and rec-
Lund was once a village site for the Tla’amin people but it was almost completely abandoned after our population was decimated by diseases that came with European settlement.

The picturesque cove is nestled on the coast about 23km north of the city of Powell River, at the end of highway 101 that connects to Langdale near Sechelt. The route is also part of a larger network of highways that stretches all the way down the coast of North and South America into Chile.

The first European settlement of the Lund area occurred around 1889 when Swedish brothers Charles and Fred Thulin made their move to Lund, which was named after a University town in Sweden. The first thing they did was build a wharf and nets with which to catch Cod. They began to produce cod liver oil which they would then sell and trade.

In 1892 the union steamship SS Comox began to transport people and mail to the Lund area. The entrepreneurial brothers knew there was a shortage of housing and immediately began work on building the first “Lund Hotel” in 1894. A second hotel called the “Malaspina” was built in 1905. This hotel is still standing today and was renamed to the Lund Hotel after the original one was destroyed by a forest fire in 1918. The area continued to grow and today there is close to 400 people that live in the Lund area.

The hotel was acquired by the Tla’amin Nation working in partnership with Dave Formosa in 1999 and has since undergone extensive renovations. It was always hoped that one day, the land around Lund would be returned to the Tla’amin people. This was the dream of former Treaty Negotiator Norm Gallagher who fought hard to make this happen, to include Lund as part of the Treaty Settlement. Before his passing he made it clear “Don’t give up on Lund”, “We need to fight for Lund...”.

That vision is now becoming a reality thanks to the efforts of a number of people. Parcels of land around the Lund Hotel were included in the Final Agreement and SDC and Treaty have almost finalized the process of securing taxation authority of those lands. A large piece of that puzzle required our partner Dave Formosa’s consent and we would like to raise our hands to Dave in appreciation as he has since agreed and signed off on that.
So what does the future look like for the Lund Hotel? The future is ever changing but at present Sliammon Development Corporation manager Kelly Rankin has been looking at possible development options that Sliammon could undertake and developed a vision for what the Lund area could become. This would see the area redeveloped and reconfigured to promote Tla’amin Culture (cultural tourism), and open up facilities for additional retail outlets and a make-over of the hotel.

One factor that can affect future development in Lund is Tla’a’min’s business partnership. Both parties would need to be on the same page with regards to any development, objectives, management and financing. As part of the share holder agreement if a partner wishes to sell their shares in the business they would have to sell to the other partner. Dave has expressed a willingness to sell his share in the company and Sliammon has expressed interest to buy. At present SDC is waiting on an independent appraisal and evaluation of the property and business to provide a base for any negotiations that may take place.

Lund has always been part of the history of our people and the return of some of these lands to Sliammon is a great achievement for our Nation. Now it is our responsibility again to manage these lands effectively for the benefit of our people.

We would also like to acknowledge and congratulate Dave and his team for their effective management of the mortgage of the property. The mortgage for the hotel was just paid off this year!

Chief Negotiators Message

One Heart, One Mind, One Nation

Treaty Settlement Lands and the Lund Hotel

This article is written to reflect upon a very special milestone in our preparations for Effective Date. On October 8, 2015 Sliammon gained consent from our business partner, Dave Formosa, for lands at the Lund Hotel to convert to become Treaty Settlement Lands. The consent is required to convert “private lands” into “Treaty Settlement Lands.” The consent paves the way for Tla’a’min Governance authority over the Lund Hotel Lands at Effective Date.

Dave has been a business partner to the Sliammon Development Corporation, and a friend to the Tla’a’min Nation for many years. At Effective Date, the business partnership at Lund will continue. The business will operate with Sliammon Development Corporation continuing to own a 51% interest; and our business partner will continue to own a 49% interest. The relationship between the business partners will remain unchanged. The future of the business will continue to be in the hands of the partners; and we will provide support for the business to grow.

At Effective Date the lands will become Tla’a’min Lands. Our Tla’a’min Government will replace the province of British Columbia as the governing authority over the land base. Our Tla’a’min Government will provide replacement tenures on Tla’a’min Lands for those currently provided by the province. The tenures will allow the business operations to continue, and within the governance umbrella of the Tla’a’min Nation.

The journey to reach this point began a long while back. The vision for Lund Hotel Lands to become Treaty Settlement Lands was inspired by the late Norm Gallagher. It’s been almost ten years to the day between Norm’s passing and the date of gaining the final consent. It’s a very fitting time to pay a tribute and to acknowledge the direction provided by a respected elder; and a friend.

Map showing the lands surrounding the Lund Hotel which will become Tla’a’min Lands. The Car park, Lund Hotel and parcels behind the hotel are owned by the Lund Hotel Company, and the remaining filled foreshore around the hotel will become Tla’a’min Lands. The blocks that go out over the water are water leases operated by the Lund Hotel Company.
Earlier this year we updated the Land and Resource section of the Comprehensive Community Plan which had not been updated since 2007. This was accomplished with the support of Dillon Consulting who also worked on our Land Use Plan for our Treaty Settlement Lands.

The objective of the Land Use Plan for our Treaty Settlement Lands was to describe the manner in which development and land use activities may be best carried out to contribute to the culture, economy, and future of Tla’amin lands.

In order to breathe life into our land use plan and arrive at our objectives, we also need to provide certainty for future land development in a way that protects and preserves our culture.

So in keeping these principles in mind we held several workshops with Department Managers reviewing not only our existing tools that allowed us to meet some of our goals but also identify new tools or resources that may be required.

When we’re talking about existing tools or resources we’re talking about existing policies, documents, funding sources, capacity building and having knowledgeable staff.

When the update was completed there were several goals related to developing a skilled work force combined with inter-departmental collaboration. But there were a couple of goals specifically that drives why we are doing this project;

One of the overarching goals was to:

Develop Tla’amin Lands respectfully while managing and protecting resources for future generations.

The identified requirements to do achieve this goal are to:

- Implement and enforce the land use plan for the TSL
- Enforce a Tla’amin Development Permitting Process
- Administer Development Permits appropriately
- Integrate and utilize our Ta’ow while protecting culture and heritage sites as well as the environment.

The second goal that supports this project is to provide for a data management system;

- This will integrate the new land registry/GIS system with any inter-departmental data management system
- In addition there will be a component to capture the referrals department to ensure that Tla’amin title and rights are acknowledged, respected and accommodated throughout our territory as this department serves as a point of contact for development.

The last goal I wanted to mention that requires the development of a Tla’amin Permitting Process is to;

- Successfully implement the Land Use Plan for the TSL
- This will take into consideration the policies within the land use plan, ensuring conformity with the land use designations within the plan and some of the laws that have been developed from the Land and Resources Working Group (In particular the Tla’amin land use and development law.)

This whole development permitting process is intended to create certainty for developers, companies, Tla’amin citizens and non-citizens in a way that is able for Tla’amin to keep track of the development activities on the land over time.

So with treaty fast approaching within six months we are getting ready by creating a system for tracking the land use activities and inventory of our natural resources within the territory responsibly.

Brooks First Nations Leadership Group

By Gerry Brach, Coordinator

This is the first in a series of articles about Brooks students who are members of the Brooks First Nation Leadership Group. The purpose of this leadership group is to provide students with an opportunity to learn new skills that will help them to become more self-reliant and confident in their life, and to make a meaningful contribution to Sliammon First Nation now and in the future.

Brooke Peters

This intelligent, and thoughtful 15 year old student, recently returned to Sliammon First Nation after living the last five years in Victoria. “I miss Victoria, but I enjoy being here with family now.”

She found a big difference between going to school in Victoria and in Powell River. “The teachers in Powell River seem to care more about how the students are doing with their school work and seem to have better teaching methods. Powell River teachers are also funnier as they are always telling lots of jokes.”

English 10 is her favourite subject so far this year, as she really likes Ms. Bakker. “She seems to get along well with all the students and she explains things really well,” said Brooke.

When Brooke graduates in two more years, she would like to study at Camosun College or University of Victoria to become a Pediatric Nurse. She is undecided at this time about where she would like to practice her nursing career.

Brooke’s hobbies include watching comedy and horror movies at the local theatre and helping out in her community. “Last Christmas I was an elf at a community event and helped serve the elders.”

Being a new student to Brooks, it was helpful for Brooke to make new friends quickly so she could get to know some different people. Brooke joined the leadership group as she thought it would develop qualities that will help her become a good nurse.

Support for your Child at Brooks

This year I am pleased to continue my counselling and leadership work with First Nation students at Brooks Secondary School. First Nation students and parents are welcome to contact me on Wednesdays and Fridays regarding:

- Course planning
- Personal issues or concerns
- Information on graduation and university/college entrance requirements
- Career exploration
- Information about Grad and Scholarships
- Information about and referral to community resources
- Student leadership opportunities

I appreciate your support in making your child’s time at Brooks Secondary School as successful as possible and I look forward to working with you and your child.

Message From The Chief

I was very pleased to attend an event at Brooks school that was hosted by the organizers of the Kathaumixw Choral Festival. They recently released a video of the 2014 Kathaumixw event that has been called “From Cedar to Song” and can easily be found on YouTube. The video is made up of highlights leading up to the 2014 event, it also documents the trip to deliver the first place totem pole prize to the people of Slope- nia. The video is very well done and is a very good starting point for the next event that will be held in 2016 which I am sure that we will participate in as partners.

China trip – Signing of Cooperation agreement – Mayor For- moso and myself along with a small delegation from Powell River recently traveled to the China to visit with the two cities, Dalian and Zhanqun to discuss potential business opportunities in the areas of Education, Forestry, Aquaculture and Tourism. The discussions went very well and the cities were excited to explore the opportunities that we may create by working together. The visit went so well that we ended up drafting a cooperation agreement between three parties. This was Zhanqun, Powell River and Sliammon prior to us travelling back to Canada. I hope that the spirit of this agreement will carry on well into the future and begin to develop and also help us to expand existing business even more and create new opportunities for our Tla’amin people.

PRSC Land Sales, it is important to understand that these lands are not a part of our Treaty Settlement lands, these lands were surplus lands from Catalyst (the mill) and the City of PR and SFN purchased as partners to sell together in an effort to try to stimulate economic development in our region. At this time we now have offers on all of the parcels of land. I hope that these deals will finalize soon so that we can receive our profits and also see some new economic growth within our traditional territory.

Social Assistance compliance review, we have just recently gone through another AANDC Compliance Review and were found to be at a 95 - 99.9% compliant. This is a huge positive step in the right direction as this program is now being operated in a proper fashion and operating within the policies and procedures that the program is intended to follow. We will carry on continuously working on improving our administration to ensure that we can provide stable and reliable services to our people. I acknowledge the Social Development staff and Management as they have done a great job in improving the operation of this program over the last few years.

Lund lands – Our partner in the Lund Hotel has signed the required consent form that will allow the Lund hotel lands to be converted to TLS; this was required because we did not own this 100% - we own 51% and Dave owns 49%. So I want to acknowledge our partner Dave Formosa for signing the consent forms as there was some confusion regarding the land holdings originally. This has now been cleared up and these lands are now secured and will become part of Tla’amin Lands on effective date of the treaty.

Effective date for our treaty is a little over 8 months away April 05, 2016, the work continues to be carried out by our Community Working Groups. The CWG’s are developing laws and Policies that will replace the Indian Act, we have also begun to host community consultation sessions on some of the laws that we feel are near completion. How- ever we would very much appreciate hearing your opinions on the laws prior to us stating that they are complete. The three areas that laws are being developed in are Lands and Natural Resources, Gover- nance and Admin, Finance Programs and services.

It is important to remember why we are doing this work, it is all about improving the lives of our people by getting away from the Indian act and being responsible for our own affairs.

On another note regarding the effective date approaching, there are two important pieces of business that we need to address before that date arrives: 1) we will need to dissolve the treaty society and board, as the office will no longer be required. 2) We will also be dis- solving the Health board as well; this is being done in order to clear up the reporting structure of the Executive Director who will now receive direction from the Tla’amin Nation administration. This will not affect the level of services currently being provided to the community.

These are exciting times, I look forward to the challenges and positive changes that we will witness in the next year. If you have any questions or concerns please feel free to contact me @ (604) 483-9666 or via email clint.williams@sliammon.bc.ca

Sliammon Aboriginal Supported Child Development

Hello, my name is Kaila Shepherd. I have just started in the Aboriginal Supported Child Development position in the Sliammon Child Development and Resource Centre. I am a licensed Infant Toddler and Special Needs Early Childhood Educator. I have been working in the field for 5 years and in Sliammon for the last year. I have two children of my own under 6 and live in Lund. I am looking forward to watching the ASCD program grow in this community.

What exactly is Aboriginal Supported Child Development?

Aboriginal Supported Child Development is a community-based program that assists families with children who require extra supports and services. The program is intended to serve children up to 12 years of age, with some services for youth ages 13 – 19 years.

Participation is voluntary. Our program goal is to increase the family’s knowledge of child development and awareness of supports in their community. If you have questions or concerns about your child’s development feel free to contact me or stop by the CDRC Mon-Thurs or give me a call at 604-483-3449 ext 6.

Paha Kwagen Kinship Program

"Paha Kwagen" [One in spirit] Kinship Program has been extremely busy since this program started. Very and happy to say, “we have connected to all children and families in Sliammon and in Powell River”.

To date, we have had 3 separate Kinship “One Spirit” dinners with all children and families. The next phase we will implement a cultural care plan for foster parents, grandparents raising grandchildren and young families.

It has been an exciting time. Thank you to all who attended Kinship Program!! We have got a lot of positive feedback, and all families expressed “they are happy with support”.

Kinship Program will work to provide a culturally based support services to children and families from Sliammon (Tla’amin) First Nation, along with other First Nation families in the Powell River Community.

Program objective,

- Increase cultural connections for children and families
- Facilitate kinship/family connections
- Serves as advisor in developing plans for permanency
- Provide sessions to prepare for respite care

Personal Credits

The Indian Residential Schools Settlement Agreement stipulated that once all Common Experience Payments (CEP) have been made, if more than $40 million remains in the Trust Fund, the funds are to be made available to CEP Recipients, upon application, in the form of non-cash Personal Credits of up to $3,000 each for educational purposes.

Several residential school survivors from Sliammon and were successful in their application for Personal Credits, which was a long tedious process.

- CEP Recipients were able to choose to transfer their Personal Credits to certain Family Members as defined in the Indian Residential Schools Settlement Agreement and the Terms and Conditions;
- Once the Personal Credits have been distributed, any amount remaining in the Trust Fund on June 1, 2015 is to be paid to the National Indian Brotherhood Trust Fund and the Inuvialuit Education Foundation to be used for educational programs.

Successful applicants:

Some of the many applicants in Sliammon were Mary Harry, Albert Hackett, Mark Paul, Virginia Jones, Patricia Luzina, Therese August, Leslie Ann Louie, Roseann Louie, Margaret Timothy, Randy Timothy, Cyndi Pallen, Barbara Galligos, Joey Galligos, Corrine Mitchell and Carmen Mitchell.

Personal credits were utilized by survivors themselves or passed down to children or grandchildren.

It was nice to help with the application process, however due to time constraints, there were many members missing the deadline, as it was a complex process.

Comedy and Dinner Family Event

Monday, November 16, 2015
at the Salish Centre
5:00pm Dinner
6:30pm Show time!

Native comedians Brian Majore (Haida) and Dustin Hollings (Chapleau Cree FN) are making a stop in Sliammon for one night only!

Brian Majore has performed all across Canada at conferences, corporate events and comedy clubs. His comedy has been described as intelligent, racially-charged, and edgy. As poet Janet Marie Rogers says, Brian “delivers the truth without apology”.

He has also worked with Sliammon member Cliff Paul, they were known as the Rez Jesters and toured Vancouver Island in 2011.

Dustin Hollings describes his style as ‘half breed humour’ because as a half-Aboriginal, full Status Indian, he gets to see the funny from both sides. He has written for ‘Derek Miller’s Guilt-Free Zone’ on APTN, and recently performed at the Aboriginal Pavilion at the Pan-Am Games in Toronto 2015.

MEND Family Program

A program where families get fit and healthy together.

For children 7 – 13 years of age and their families.

‘Mend’ helps families change lifestyle habit, be physical active, eat healthy food and take action!

Families will learn how to choose healthier foods and spend more time being physically active.

Families will learn about healthy foods, label reading and portion sizes.

It’s free and fun!

Tla’amin Health may be able to run the program in Sliammon in the new year. If there is enough interest so please call Sally if you would like to participate in the MEND programs.
Ages and Stages Screening

WHAT IS AN AGES AND STAGES SCREENING?

If you have a child over 18 months of age it is likely that you have been a part of an Ages and Stages Questionnaire (ASQ) as most children receive this screening at their 18 month vaccination. This screening is also done before children enter the Chi Chuy preschool. Here is a description of what the ASQ entails as well as the benefits that follow this screening.

The Ages and Stages Questionnaire is a brief questionnaire designed to help parents check their child’s development. This is similar in theory to a health screen, such as a quick vision or hearing screen. The ASQ is a series of questionnaires for children 2 months to 5 years of age and is a parent completed questionnaire. The parent will assist the child in completing the tasks on the ASQ or if the child is very young the parent will be able to answer the questions.

The 5 domains of the ASQ are:
1. Communication
2. Gross Motor
3. Fine Motor
4. Problem Solving
5. Personal-social

Ages and stages is a very helpful tool for daycare providers, preschool teachers, and parents who would like to celebrate their child’s strengths and build on their weaknesses. This type of screening can:

- Provide a useful child profile
- Help with program planning
- Identify targeted goals and objectives
- Be used to evaluate child progress over time
- Identify problem areas and assist in receiving support that he/she may need.

If you would like to do an ASQ with your child feel free to contact me and we can set up a time and place that is convenient for the both of you. You can reach me at 604-483-3449 ext.4 or at dana.g@tlaminhealth.com.

Responsive Adult Training

The Tla’amin Child Development Resource Center is looking at offering the Responsive Adult training course which is a 2 day certified training course. This course will qualify you to work

- In an Occasional Licensed Child Care
- In a School Age Licensed Group Child Care
- As a replacement (substitute) for ECE Assistants (for less than 30 days) in a licensed group childcare centre or preschool.

The projected training date will be in early December. If you are interested please contact Rose Adams at 604-483-3449 ext. 1 or rose.a@tlaminhealth.com.

What if you fell?

Dr. Paul Martignette, Medical Health Officer

Was Humpty Dumpty a senior?

Chances are he was because they could not put him back together again. In fact, a fall is the main reason that an older adult loses his or her independence. The implications of a fall can vary from a little inconvenient to devastating with reduced mobility, lower quality of life, and even death.

Across Canada, between 20 and 30 percent of seniors fall each year. In British Columbia, falls are the leading cause of injury-related hospitalizations for seniors; about 40 percent of these were for hip fractures. Between 2003 and 2010, self-reported injuries from falls increased 43 percent, and deaths by 65 percent. Clearly, a fall is a significant health risk for an older adult.

Falling can precipitate both mental and physical outcomes. Negative mental outcomes include developing a fear of falling, increased confusion and depression. Physical outcomes can mean a loss of mobility and chronic pain. There are also significant costs associated with falls, some for the individual, and others for the healthcare system.

There are factors that make a fall more likely including age-related changes in eyesight, hearing or a poor sense of touch. Mobility problems like slower reflexes, muscle weakness and impaired balance can also contribute. Environmental factors can also account for falls: slippery floors, loose throw rugs, cluttered floors, doors with raised sills, missing handrails, uneven sidewalks and poorly lit areas, both indoors and outdoors can mean danger.

A person’s choices can also lead to a higher risk of falling. For example, wearing loose-fitting clothing, worn-out shoes or shoes with thick soles can make it harder to get around, and then make it more difficult to regain lost balance. For whatever reason, perhaps related to denial, some people choose to not use assistive devices like canes or walkers, maybe thinking: “I’m safe here in the house,” but half of all falls that lead to hospitalization occur in the home.

Once a person has had a fall, they may become fearful of having another. This can then lead to being less active which can mean muscle weakness and reduced physical fitness, which can in turn mean less ability to avoid a fall.

There are things you can do to avoid falling and becoming yet another statistic. Start by improving mobility and balance—physical activity is a great way to do this. Local recreation groups have many courses designed specifically for seniors including exercises, yoga and aqua-exercise. Get regular vision checkups and have problems corrected. A review of your medications with a doctor or pharmacist can highlight potential problems for mobility and balance.

There are ample resources for anyone looking to improve their odds against falling. A good place to start is the Staying Independent brochure from SeniorsBC which offers a handy checklist to help you decide if you are at risk of falling. It provides ideas that you can discuss with your family or healthcare provider. Another online resource is BC Injury Research. And, of course, talk to your doctor or physical therapist. Don’t let a fall become a catalyst for losing your independence.

In many situations, using an alcohol-based hand rub is actually better for cleaning your hands. If using a sanitizer, make sure to rub your hands for about 15-30 seconds until the alcohol is dry and that you cover all surfaces of your hands and between your fingers.

One of the reasons we have superbugs is that some germs become resistant to the antibiotics we use to control them. Fortunately, unlike other antiseptics and antibiotics, there is no reported or likely resistance to alcohol-based hand rubs. Indeed, the more it is appropriately used, the fewer antibiotic-resistant bacteria are able to spread.

As a visitor to a healthcare or long-term care facility, preventing the spread of germs coming in, or going out is simply good idea. But what about when interacting with healthcare providers? Patients and people close to them can also play a role in preventing infections: it is completely acceptable to ask the doctor, nurse or lab technician whether they have washed or sanitized their hands before treating you.

Have you ever noticed that at any health facility and many public buildings, there are hand sanitizer stations right at the door “in your way”?! There is a reason for this and it has everything to do with protecting others from you, and with keeping you healthy.

Minimizing the chances of spreading germs is especially important at health and long-term care facilities where an infection can be life-threatening to vulnerable patients. For that reason, there are stations available for you to use both when coming in and when coming out. These help reduce the likelihood that a communicable disease such as the flu, cold, measles, mumps and other illnesses will be spread.

They also help guard against the spread of so-called ‘superbugs’. Superbugs! are a collection of different germs such as Methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) and Clostridium difficile (C-difficile) that are very resistant to antibiotics and can make people very sick if they become infected with them. Canadian data suggest that one in 10 patients admitted to hospital will get one; superbugs can also be picked up in the community, outside hospitals. Healthcare-associated infections can also be very serious: each year they cause about 100,000 deaths in Canada.

One of the most effective, to say nothing of simplest, ways to reduce the spread of infection is by practicing good hand hygiene. That means washing effectively using soap and water, or using an alcohol-based hand sanitizer. Get into the habit of washing your hands regularly throughout the day: after eating and preparing food, after using the bathroom, after coughing, sneezing or using a tissue.

Dr. Paul Martignette is the Medical Health Officer for Rural Vancouver Coastal Health including Powell River, Sunshine Coast, Sea-to-Sky, Bella Bella and Bella Coola.
The success of the community luncheons for 2015 can be attributed to the community members who took the time to submit their recipes and the community members who stopped by for a light hearted meal enjoying time with family and friends.

Presentations
There was a presentation by a Sliammon income assistance client who needed Council’s help with a Social Development concept and a non-compliant situation. The matter regarded non-payment of a monthly allowance through the Sliammon Social Development Program. Discussion began about reasons for withholding of the September cheque for this client. Council made suggestions to the community member about what can be done to fix the matter. Council verifies that the decision to not fund this applicant applies to AANDC social policy. Council cannot make ad hoc decisions outside of the Social Policy directive. The final outcome is that missing information in a case file is required before payment can be made.

Steve Gallagher attended the meeting and spoke about implementation plans. In recent land use planning sessions, capacity initiative goals were identified and one goal was to establish a permitting process. Steven provided a schedule that the old BCR is not legitimate as there are only two signatures on the BCR. It was proposed that individuals must be reviewed separately in the present and new BCRs should be done for each person.

Public Works: Road repairs and big pot holes were discussed. Also, the need for speed bumps to curb the ATV and dirt bikes. Council feels that the motor vehicle act should be strongly enforced by the RCMP. It is time that fines were handed out to offenders. A fire hydrant is leaking a bit by Walter Paul’s house and it needs work. Ditches and culverts need attention due to heavy rains and recent flooding of carports. The FNIP report submission may include the upgrade of damaged and faulty culverts. It was suggested that a review of this infrastructure issue should begin. The gravel pit needs clean-up because of a build-up of yard and plant waste which may need removal or flattening.

Fire Department: Discussion began on a furnace for the fire hall building. Installing a forced air unit or heat pump was discussed. Wiring needs finishing and we are waiting for the electricians to follow up.

Forestry: Guiding Territory Certificate letter was discussed. It concerns a Sean Lingl application. Council indicates that the matter be deferred to Comox Nation.

Cultural: Clint met with Betty, Budd and Keith Carlson about place names display. The only story is the Texada story. They are looking for a SHIRK grant and on Sept. 18 discussion about whether Sliammon should be included with Sechelt. Sherry Simms may need to come to Sechelt on unique training needs, as needs differ between Sliammon and Sechelt. Treaty-based assets were mentioned and a discussion about whether Sliammon should be included with NVIATS ends.

Regional Emergency Executive Committee: Shawn Louie informed that they met on Monday and the ambulance service is under pressure. There are issues with their budget which may cause restraints.

FN Education Steering Committee (FNESC): Sliammon needs to contact FNESC and learn what services Sliammon is eligible for after treaty.

Chief’s Report
1. Local fire smart signs need improvement. First Nations signage is advised on the trails.
2. Truck Logger representatives will liaise with Vancouver Island University about a new program.
3. The new mid-size excavator is coming to Sliammon next week.
4. The Washington State trip to oversee the agricultural association was a good one. The operation sources oysters, manila clams and geoducks. Clint went to visit the plant and they are doing good things. He visited other successful sites and operations. Triple A covered the expenses.
5. There may be another trip to China. There is talk about a sister city relationship with Powell River.

Other Business
1. Elk draw is September 4th and 24 people have their name entered. Early access to elk was proposed so that the elk are not spooked. There is a requirement to call and report the meat sample. There is an inspection fee to pay for the inspector and hunters do not wish to pay for the inspector. Plans are in the works to make a premise that if you win a draw one year, then you cannot enter the draw for next year.
2. Larry asked that Council acknowledge Elsie for her contribution to Sliammon with her book. Acknowledge Elsie at the next AGM for her contribution. Provide a list of Elsie’s accomplishments.
3. Discussion about the person who wants to do some Harwood Island camping for 7 days and hunt the wildlife too. The camp trip is coming soon.
4. For NVIATS, the annual operation plan should be reviewed and Sliammon needs to be a part of developing the plan. Treaty-based assets were mentioned and a discussion about whether Sliammon should be included with Sechelt on unique training needs, as needs differ between Sliammon and Sechelt. Sherry Simms may need to come and talk with Sliammon as it is six months into the year. Discussion began about future needs for Sliammon and what happens after the agreement with NVIATS ends.

Motion to adjourn meeting made by Eugene and seconded by Shawn. Carried.
Meeting adjourned at 12:49 pm.
Tofino Tragedy: Ahousaht First Responders Save 21 People

Paraphrased from Debora Steel article published October 27 on www.hashilthsa.com.

Nuu-chah-nulth Tribal Council is calling on the federal and provincial governments to boost the search and rescue capacity of Nuu-chah-nulth coastal communities in the wake of the recent incident off the coast of Tofino when a whale watching tour boat capsized killing at least 5 people.

Ahousaht first responder Clarence Smith was first on the scene with his fishing buddy Kenny Brown. After repeated failed attempts to alert the Coast Guard they switched the radio to an Ahousaht channel and called for help.

By the time federal search and rescue had arrived on scene, Ahousaht boats had everyone out of the water and en-route to waiting emergency medical services.

Local fisherman Tony Cook said Canada should be putting more money towards local first nation coastal communities as they are typically the first to arrive on scene as was the case when the Queen of the North sank.

Bridge River Tragedy Exposes Major Flaws In the System

The attack on Bridge River Band, Xwisten, highlights serious issues faced by all first nation communities. On Oct 14th a young man from the community attacked band staff with a hammer leaving multiple people in critical condition before losing his own life.

First Nation communities have been placed under a lot of pressure under increasingly strict Harper Government controls forcing them to essentially become administrators or enforcers of poverty.

Combined with the legacy of the residential school system and complex intergenerational trauma that persists, this creates a recipe for disaster as was experienced recently.

Band staff administering social services don’t have the resources or training to adequately respond to the needs of individuals with complex social and health needs. It is hoped that the new government will work with First Nations in a meaningful way to find solutions to the unique problems we face.

Sliammon Sacred Heart Church Update

By Betty Wilson

- Nov. 15 mass - all of our deceased relatives from Homalco
- Nov. 22 mass - all of our deceased relatives from Klahoose
- Nov. 29 mass - all of our deceased relatives from Sliammon

Sliammon Health usually has a candlelight vigil in November for all of our deceased relatives. To coincide with the community health program we have requested that a mass be said on the above dates.

We are also now working towards our goal for a new floor for Sliammon Sacred Heart. We hope to raise enough money to be able to do this by late spring. When the floor is being worked on, the pews will have to come out and be re-finished.

November 8 we will be having a fund-raiser lunch. We will be serving bbq salmon! There is no set fee but a donation container will be available for those who would like to contribute towards the meal.

Come and bring your family, the meal will be after the 12:00 pm mass at Sliammon Sacred Heart. If you would like to contribute towards a door prize, I will gladly accept.

Thank you.
The Tla’amin Dictionary project continues to make steady progress. For those unfamiliar with the project, community members from the Tla’amin, Homalco, Klahoose and Komoks Nation are working with a group of talented linguists from various universities to continue the process of documenting and cataloguing the language with the goal of producing a database or dictionary of words. The whole point is to document and preserve our language, and revitalize it by creating teaching and learning aids like this dictionary.

This dictionary would be both electronic and printed. An electronic dictionary has a few advantages, namely the ability to be accessible online from anywhere on any device, the ability to add recorded audio and other visual media, along with having advanced search features. Imagine having an app on your phone where you could access the dictionary to find words and hear the audio pronunciation to help learn the language. But that part of the project will come later. The first step for us is the process of documenting and recording our language.

The linguists that are working with us include University of British Columbia linguistics professor Dr. Suzanne Urbanczyk from the University of Victoria, and Dr. Henry Davis from the University of British Columbia who is the lead on this project and was instrumental in writing the grant proposal. We also have a very talented and passionate UBC Linguistics PhD Candidate Marianne Huijsmans working with us in our communities. At the moment we have secured funding for five years so the intention is to document and record as much as we can over this time.

The project is just beginning and so far we have had Devin Pelle, Susan Blaney, and Randy Timothy faithfully showing up to do recording and editing, etc. We’ve also had participation from Dawna Pallen and Gail Blaney and we are hoping to further develop capacity within the other communities. At present we have also done some work with Elsie Paul and Dave Dominick and will also be seeking input from fluent elder speakers in Homalco and Klahoose.

Everyone dancing at the Blaney/Galligos Potlatch Naming Ceremony, Sat Oct 24th.

Latest Report

By Betty Wilson

Marianne arrived on Thursday the 22nd of October and we immediately continued work. Thursday morning we were reviewing what had already been archived and what needed sentences. Devin and Marianne also began work on a prompter sheet that we could all use as a guide when working with our elders. In the afternoon we spent time with Elsie Paul going over the sensitive topic of “burning for our loved ones who are gone.” This was very informative for Marianne to help her understand not only the concept of burning but the meaning behind the words used.

On Friday we continued working on the topic of “burning”. We had help from Dave Dominick in the afternoon providing sentences for words that were not complete. For lunch we had fish egg soup and I even included a fish head for Marianne to try. Carrie ate the head, probably to Marianne’s relief!!

On Saturday Devin and Marianne continued working on creating a system for the words and phrases that had been gathered so far. In the afternoon we attended a gathering at the Salish Center which was a potlatch style memorial recognition and naming ceremony for some of our children. Marianne also got to show her dancing talents as everyone was invited to dance!

On Sunday Devin and Marianne continued to work in the morning before Marianne went to join the Blaney family for their burning. On Monday Marianne and I were picked up by the Klahoose Band boat and were in Klahoose territory by 10am! There Marianne was introduced to the band staff members. Our resource people included Herman and Eva Francis. Su took the lead with some words that she had been working on. After that we looked at how foods were traditionally preserved and we gathered more phrases. Jessie Louie also came and joined us. We were given clam chowder and fresh crab for lunch, we thought we had died and gone to heaven!

We have lots of words and phrases to review. This will be our next focus. Su and Marianne have been great resources so far. They are instrumental with the organization and cataloguing of the language so it all makes sense as we go along. I will endeavor to keep you informed, I hope this gives people an idea of what we are doing. Anyone is welcome to come and join us, just get in touch with me for information.
